

The Canine First Responder Course

For dog owners and professionals working in the field.

Sunday 29 March 2009 8am – 5pm (approx)
Welland Village Hall, nr Malvern, Worcs, WR13 6NE

The course is open to the dog loving public and is also available to people working within the canine field such as trainers, dog handlers, behaviour analysts, kennel managers and assistants. The course is open to anyone over the age of sixteen although we will take course participants under the age of sixteen so long as they can demonstrate working with dogs in a responsible manner such as kennel assistants, farm workers and breeders or youngsters that want to do the course with their parents.

The course follows the same protocols vets would use if they were first on the scene of you canine emergency so you will be safe in the knowledge that you have done exactly what the vet would have done if he were on the scene first. We use the latest in audio visual technology to enhance the learning experience with trainers that have over ten years of experience delivering your course for you. You will get hands on practice with the latest canine CPR manikin and have fun at the same time as we learn in a fun, relaxed, friendly environment conducive to learning.

So what will you learn? Listed below are just a few of the things covered in the course materials:

- Effective use of barriers such as gloves and face shields
- Safe scene assessment
- Primary Assessment
- Canine CPR and rescue breathing
- Spinal Injury Management
- Control of serious bleeding
- Shock Management
- Splinting for broken limbs
- Choking Management
- And more

This one day course will give you the tools you need to be prepared should that medical emergency arise with your beloved pet. Once you have completed The Canine First Responder Course you will be issued with a wall certificate valid for two years. (All good first aid courses should be refreshed every two years to keep up with protocol changes and keep your skills up to date).

The course includes all materials such as your student manual (which will be posted to you before the course as a CD) and barrier and bandage packs for use during the course and which you get to keep after the course.

You are guaranteed a fun day of learning and hands on practice and you will even make new friends with the same interests so contact us now for course dates and availability in your area.
